STATEWIDE COALITION LAUNCHED

Against Driverless Buses
The TWU is Fighting Corporate Corruption, Coast-to-Coast

By International President John Samuelsen

In every division across the country, the TWU is engaged in multi-legged, strategic, fightback campaigns. We are railing against corporate greed one boss at a time, aggressively defending our members’ safety and livelihoods.

One of those bosses is Amtrak President Richard Anderson, better known as the Chief Executive Outsourcer, who is determined to destroy our national railroad system for the sake of personal profit. In October, the TWU led a press conference on the steps of the James Farley Post Office in New York City, where I pledged to fight against his privatizing policies, tooth-and-nail (see p. 18).

Anderson - just like all of the other creepy greedsters - does not care one iota about workers or riders. He claims that no one lost their jobs due to his service cuts, but this is a classic example of lying by omission. Dedicated, trained professionals with decades of service were forced to start all over again at a new position, uproot their lives and relocate thousands of miles away, or stop working for Amtrak altogether. Despite our repeated attempts, Anderson himself refuses to meet with TWU Local 1460.

You know what? That’s okay. The TWU International stands behind Local 1460 and we are a force to be reckoned with.

Our renewed vigor became crystal clear when we launched our statewide coalition against autonomous vehicles in Ohio this September: People Before Robots. In front of a bus shelter in downtown Columbus, the TWU International spearheaded our latest campaign to ensure that human beings remain behind the wheel of our buses (see p. 6). It’s sheer, greed-driven, corporate lunacy that has sparked the efforts to replace the vital service provided by Bus Operators with flawed, robotic technology, so we’re building a coalition against this dangerous, ridiculous idea. Read more at the newly launched site, PeopleBeforeRobots.org.

In addition to fighting the good fight to defend our current members, we are busy organizing new workers and expanding our great union.

The TWU truly is America’s Fighting Democratic Union once again. We Move America and we will remain United Invincible for decades to come. But before we continue to kick corporate greed in the arse in 2019, I hope you are all able to take a breath this holiday season and enjoy it safe, surrounded by loved ones.

I hope your Chanukah was Happy, your Christmas was Merry and that you have an awesome New Year.

20 TWU Puts the Brakes on Toxic School Buses
Despite all the odds, 2018 was a year of tremendous growth for the TWU. We started off strong, with 5,000 JetBlue InFlight Crewmembers joining our family. When the Supreme Court released the Janus decision, it was predicted labor unions would falter. But instead, we prevailed. Here at the TWU, we spent the summer launching numerous new organizing campaigns and signing up hundreds of new members across the country.

On Election Day, working people showed up and exercised their right to vote. TWU members spent hours doing work to Get Out The Vote – and it paid off. Turnout was the highest for a Midterm election in decades, with many standing outside for hours waiting to cast their ballot.

There were many hiccups caused by broken voting machines and other technical glitches, but still we managed to elect into office representatives who will fight for the interests of working people.

A lot of changes also took place this election. For the first time in almost a decade, Democrats have control of the U.S. House of Representatives. On top of that, the new Congress is more diverse than ever before.

We must hold each and every elected official accountable, regardless of what party they are affiliated with. The new Democratic majority in the U.S. House and our allies in the U.S. Senate must grow a backbone and push forward legislation that improves the lives of union members and working folks.

They should be advocating for strong investments in public transit, replacing our transportation infrastructure, eliminating operator assaults and fully funding Amtrak. Furthermore, they should be working to stop aircraft maintenance offshoring and enacting improved safety regulations for flight attendants, among many other issues that affect TWU members and workers everywhere.

Here at the International, we’re also on the offense. Members in Richmond County, Georgia are demanding the school board investigate school buses that are potentially making students and operators sick. In Ohio, we launched a statewide coalition against autonomous buses: People Before Robots. Our Rail Division is waging a fight against Amtrak President Richard Anderson’s incomprehensible cuts to service and careers. We’re continuing to fight back against aircraft maintenance offshoring and flight attendant safety issues.

The TWU is bringing this momentum into 2019. We will continue to make our mark as America’s Fighting Democratic Union – and we couldn’t have done it without you. Thank you for all your hard work and dedication. Remember: United Invincible!

I hope all of you had a wonderful holiday season filled with joy and have a happy, healthy 2019.

THE TWU LAUNCHES OHIO COALITION

Against Driverless Buses
ON SEPT. 18, THE TWU LAUNCHED A CAMPAIGN to form a statewide coalition to protect Bus Operators, bus riders and the public in Ohio from unchecked and dangerous automation that some elected officials in the state are promoting.

Joined by members of the American Federation of Teachers and the Amalgamated Transit Union, International President John Samuelsen and Local 208 President Andrew Jordan announced the People Before Robots campaign in Columbus, OH.

“We’re not going to let anybody give our jobs away to robots. We’re just not,” Samuelsen said. “Bus Operators are too important to the safety of riders and the public, and these working-class jobs are too important to working-class families. If the politicians and profiteers try to wipe out these jobs, they will have a massive fightback on their hands.”

The unchecked and dangerous deployment of autonomous vehicles — including driverless buses in Columbus, Toledo and Cincinnati — could put tens of thousands of Ohioans on the unemployment lines. That includes Bus Operators who should remain in the driver’s seat. An empty seat at the front of an autonomous bus can’t: assist in an emergency, help senior citizens or the disabled get on board, call 911, give directions or CPR, or go off-route due to an unexpected danger or crisis, including a terror attack.

“The women and men of Local 208 are the backbone of public transportation here in Columbus and throughout Central Ohio,” Jordan said. “We are not opposed to technology. But we won’t stand by and let machines replace human bus operators and decimate middle class jobs that are vital to our communities and to our local and state economies. I will say it again: A bus is NOTHING without US!”

The Sept. 18 press conference garnered significant headlines and TV coverage: NBC 4, ABC 6, WOSU, WTRF and The Columbus Dispatch.

Ohio State AFL-CIO Passes Resolution

That afternoon, delegates to the Ohio State AFL-CIO 31st Biennial Convention unanimously passed the resolution, “Addressing the Challenges and Threats of Autonomous Vehicles to Transportation Worker Jobs in Ohio.”

Jordan read the resolution, “The Ohio AFL-CIO recognizes that technology is not an adequate substitute for human operators and declares its opposition to the replacement of experienced, professional transportation workers, who have long provided their communities essential, safe and secure public transit services, by autonomous vehicles in the provision of public transportation.”
“This is very much a class issue. The tech moguls and Wall Street investors who are pushing this initiative drive their BMWs to work – they aren’t taking buses,” stressed Samuelsen, speaking from the convention floor. “Isn’t it interesting how these rich people driving BMWs, who have been divesting in public transit for decades, are now investing in something that takes jobs away from working families. It’s a direct attack on blue-collar jobs in Ohio.”

Before the resolution was passed, attendees got the opportunity to watch the video Fight for Jobs & Safety, produced by the TWU International as part of this campaign.

Rep. Michele Lepore Hagan (OH-28) talked about the importance of having an actual human operating a bus. “It’s a lot more than driving people from A to B. You deserve a seat at the table,” she said.

Rep. Jim Hughes (OH-24) noted that the threat of autonomous vehicles “is not a Republican or a Democrat issue. This is about safety and jobs… [a driverless bus] won’t know if a deer pops out or a child. They don’t have the eyes and ears of a common-sense bus driver who can see and hear what is going on,” he explained.

Carly Allen, President of ATU Local 697 in Toledo, said, “They are not addressing the issue of funding. To see ODOT throw money into autonomous coaches and not transit…”

Allen recalled how a fellow bus operator prevented someone from committing suicide and has aided domestic violence victims. “A driverless van downtown doesn’t know that Mrs. Smith has Alzheimer’s,” she said. “These things frighten me as a citizen and a mother.”
Akshai Singh, Community Organizer for Northern Ohioans for Budget Legislation Equity, said driverless buses are a “Major concern for any pedestrian or anyone who wants to catch a bus,” especially those with mobility issues.

“The first person we interact with and our lifeline is our driver. We depend on our buses in inclement weather,” Singh explained. “Keep drivers in buses where they keep us safer… (especially for) folks with disabilities it’s such a major need. Paratransit keeps getting more expensive.”

Deb Kline, Director of Cleveland Jobs with Justice and President of OPEIU Local 1794, talked about how ICE officers are trying to board buses with bogus warrants and how bus operators act as a barrier to their targeting of passengers they believe may be undocumented.

“This will affect our communities and the immigrant community,” she said, while handing out samples of real warrants and bogus warrants so attendees could see the difference.

“If you are a driver and an ICE officer tries to come on your bus, unless they have a warrant, they can’t come on,” Kline explained.

TWU Local 208 ‘Tests’ Autonomous Shuttle

When Smart Columbus and Drive Ohio unveiled the vendor for Columbus’ AV shuttle service on Sept. 19, TWU Local 208 showed up en masse at the event in their “This is a Driverless Bus” T-shirts – much to their chagrin (see photo below).

Employees from Smart Columbus did not allow union members to attend the event, instead quarantining us far away from the demonstration. However – testing, for the second time in a row, couldn’t happen. Something went wrong with the T-Bar, or steering wheel, and the company that made the vehicles – May Mobility – was afraid it might drive into the nearby Scioto River.

Holding TWU Local 208’s banner, TWU members chanted “Our Jobs, Our Work” and “People Before Robots” in protest.

The impromptu rally was covered by WOSU and WDTN 2 and livestreamed on Facebook.

Fight Just Beginning

The fight against autonomous vehicles is just beginning.

On Sept. 21, members of the New York/New Jersey State Conference sent a letter to President Jordan, expressing their support for the campaign.

LEGISLATIVE UPDATES

Before Congress left for the campaign trail, the House and Senate passed legislation that impacts TWU members, including major Federal Aviation Administration reauthorization. The Department of Transportation (DOT) also has been active, recently issuing regulatory documents that affect TWU membership. Below is a look at the work Congress and the DOT completed before members of Congress turned their attention to the election.

Congress Finally Enacts FAA Reauthorization

After years of trying to reauthorize the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), Congress finally passed a bill to do just that.

In early October, the House and Senate passed the FAA Reauthorization Act of 2018 (H.R. 302), which renews the FAA for five years (through 2023) and establishes various policies and programs, committees and task forces, and studies relating to safety, workers, industry, and passengers. The law also reauthorizes the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) and addresses aviation security.

H.R. 302 is the result of congressional staff and leadership negotiating the separate versions of FAA reauthorization that the House (H.R. 4) and Senate (S. 1405) considered earlier this year and in 2017. The final bill, which is now law, results from a mix of those previous versions, compromises between the two, and, in some cases, removal of entire sections.

The TWU endorsed the bill and sent letters to House and Senate offices urging them to support the bill. The new law passed with overwhelming bipartisan support in the House by a 398-23 vote and in the Senate by a 93-6 vote.

While not perfect, the law will advance worker and public safety in a number of ways. Through meetings, exchanges of ideas and edits, and member advocacy, the TWU worked hard to represent our interests and shape this bill in ways that benefit TWU members. These include: guaranteeing flight attendants 10 hours of rest; addressing sexual assault on aircraft; increasing penalties for those who assault flight attendants; banning inflight cell phone voice calls; limiting industry’s efforts to weaken maintenance certificates; eliminating language requiring continuous background vetting unrelated to aviation security; calling for regulations of service and emotional support animals traveling in aircraft cabins; addressing assault of customer service agents; and making sure maintenance workers have a voice in discussions about their work, among other positive provisions.

TWU members also weighed in: in the final days of negotiations, the TWU sent an action alert encouraging members to call their elected representatives in support of the flight attendant 10-hour rest provision. Thanks to all those who called; the guaranteed 10-hour rest was included in the bill that became law.

The President signed the bill into law on Oct. 5. Following his signature, the TWU sent an action alert encouraging members to call their elected representatives in support of the flight attendant 10-hour rest provision. Thanks to all those who called; the guaranteed 10-hour rest was included in the bill that became law.

The DOT releases Guidance on Autonomous Vehicles

The DOT released new guidance on autonomous (driverless) vehicles, called “AV 3.0.” This document is geared toward manufacturers and the industry and is intended to make it easier to deploy driverless vehicles. The document addresses the DOT’s interest in allowing transit agencies to use driverless buses.

AV 3.0 indicates that the DOT will consider eliminating some of the existing regulations that protect public safety but which they believe act as “barriers” preventing deployment of driverless technology. The guidance also states that the DOT is investing in research to support the use of automation in transit, including an analysis of the employment and workforce impacts of driverless vehicles.

The TWU and the public know that driverless technology isn’t safe. Accidents involving driverless technology have resulted in injury and death, demonstrating that it’s not ready for prime time in passenger cars, and certainly not ready for use in large commercial vehicles used in public transportation that carry dozens, even 100 passengers at a time. On top of that, policymakers must understand how driverless technology will impact the millions of Americans who drive and maintain buses and trucks for a living.

The TWU will be providing feedback to DOT on its efforts to deploy driverless buses, such as the study described in the following paragraphs.
TWU Comments on DOT Study of Autonomous Vehicles and Drivers

In addition to fighting back on the ground by launching AV campaigns to protect TWU members’ work (see p. 6), the TWU is also working to represent our interests at the federal level.

For example, the TWU joined other union allies in getting Congress to direct the DOT to study how bus drivers will be impacted by the use of driverless vehicles and advanced driver assist systems (such as collision avoidance systems). Recently, the DOT issued a description of how it plans to conduct the study, and the TWU submitted feedback to help ensure the study is done in a fair manner.

In our comments, the TWU made clear that we believe AVs are not safe, given the number of accidents and safety incidents involving personal cars that have occurred. Of course, those dangers would be multiplied if transit, school, shuttle, or other buses equipped with this technology were to fail, as the dozens of passengers they carry would be harmed.

However, given the push from industry to implement this technology, it is important that the government measure its impact on the transportation workforce if it is ever used. Specifically, we asked the DOT to study how many workers could lose their jobs if we allow driverless technology on the road. This is important because some estimates suggest that between 2.2 and 3.1 million full-time and part-time jobs may change or be eliminated because of driverless technology.

We also asked the DOT to consider whether workers’ wages will be hurt if their roles as operators evolve with the technology, as some evidence shows that the jobs of the future could pay less than current bus industry wages. Our comments also urged the DOT to study the type of training that workers will need in order to safely interact with advanced technologies.

The DOT is now reviewing all the comments it received, and you can read ours at www.twu.org.

Improvements Made to Opioid Bill

In the last issue of the Express, we discussed a bill written by Senate Republicans that expanded drug and alcohol testing for transportation workers. The TWU and union allies had concerns with the bill, but by working together, labor secured improvements to the bill, which became law in late October.

These improvements included:

- Making sure that only the scientific experts at the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) – not the politicians in Congress – can decide whether testing workers for fentanyl is necessary and can be done with reliable validity;
- Preventing information that might identify individual workers from being included in drug and alcohol testing data that DOT releases publicly, thereby protecting workers’ privacy; and
- Helping prevent the industry from pressuring HHS to test workers for drugs by testing samples of their hair. The TWU opposes testing hair samples for drug use because it’s a controversial method that’s shown to be unreliable and discriminatory.

LOOKING AHEAD

The current 115th session of Congress will end in December, and the newly-elected members of the 116th Congress will take their seats next year. But before the current session ends and Congress leaves town, there are a few remaining items that need to be completed.

These include passing a bill to fund transportation programs. Congress passed a bill to fund transit, highway, Amtrak, rail, and aviation programs through December 2018. Congress must pass a funding measure before that bill expires, or the programs stop functioning and the government will shut down. This funding bill could be one of the last major items this session of Congress votes on.
The contract fight between American Airlines and the TWU continues. On Tuesday, Oct. 23, nearly a thousand TWU members, Machinist Union (IAM) members and allies rallied together at Dallas Fort Worth Airport. They were calling on American Airlines to save jobs and protect livelihoods, as well as fighting the airline’s outsourcing of maintenance, subcontracting of ramp work, attacks on working people and risks to passenger safety system-wide.

The TWU International created a flyer highlighting the “unAmerican” tactics American Airlines is deploying, encouraging members to call CEO Doug Parker and President Robert Isom to tell them to “Keep American Airlines American.”

“American Airlines needs to stop playing with people’s lives and livelihoods in gluttonous pursuit of profit,” said President Samuelsen. “We refuse to allow air travelers to be endangered and will fight on to keep these good-paying, American jobs in the USA, rather than shipped overseas. The TWU will not cave into the company’s demands.”

Mediation Begins

The TWU-IAM Association met with American Airlines on Oct. 30 in Dallas, TX, for mediated negotiations under the supervision of the National Mediation Board. The purpose of this first mediated session was to bring the federal mediators up to speed on the status of negotiations. Areas covered were compensation, healthcare, retirement, work protections (scope) and the remaining open language issues. The Association clearly restated their demands that their work is protected in any final agreement. They also reiterated their positions on the other economic issues. The meeting was cordial and produced final tentative agreements on MLS and Fleet holidays as well as M&R Qualifications.

The Association held firm that the number of negotiating sessions was inadequate and more frequent meetings are needed. American Airlines did not object and mediators set a new schedule. Sessions were held by conference call, Nov. 15 and Dec. 14. Face to face meetings are slated for Jan. 15-17, Jan. 29-31, Feb. 6-8 and Feb. 12-14.

AIR UPDATES

New JetBlue Organizing: Mechanics and PSAs

Shop steward training for JetBlue InFlight Crewmembers (IFC) took place in New York City in early November. Members discussed what their future local will look like – and are already engaged in efforts to organize other parts of JetBlue Airways. One of those endeavors is yet another organizing drive the TWU kicked off this fall: JetBlue Passenger Service Agents and Mechanics at John F. Kennedy Airport. If successful, it has the potential of adding thousands more to the TWU family.

The JetBlue IFC negotiating team kicked off negotiations for their inaugural contract this fall, meeting in New York City.

AA Equity Update

TWU International Vice President Gary Peterson sent the below summary with respect to the TWU Reserve/Equity fund distribution to Locals 501-591: $35,900,000 was mailed out to eligible members on Nov. 7. This distribution will follow the same methodology that was used previously, which was established by the Equity Committee.

- No different than before, the company must provide the necessary tax information to Computershare since TWU does not employ our members and TWU does not have the necessary individual tax payer information for each member for this type of distribution.
- The distribution of the funds from Computershare will be made by check and mailed to each eligible employee’s last known address on file with the Company. Eligible participants should ensure that Computershare has their current mailing address.
- Also, the same as last time, a legal determination, in accordance with IRS rules and regulations, has been requested with respect to the withholding of income taxes on the equity distributions to be made in accordance with the following formula:
  - For active employees and those on leave of absence, or those who have since left the company via retirement, termination or otherwise and are still alive, American Airlines will issue a W2 and withhold applicable taxes;
  - For employees, deceased after 1/1/2018, American Airlines will issue a W2 with and will withhold applicable taxes; and
  - For employees deceased prior to 1/1/2018, Computershare will issue a 1099 form and no taxes will be withheld.

This equity distribution is not a bonus, nor does this money repay us for the sacrifices we have been forced to endure through bankruptcy or the airline’s merger, in order for American to become the world’s largest airline.

CONTRACT UPDATES

Sun Country Dispatchers File for Contract Mediation

On Sept. 14, TWU Dispatchers employed by Sun Country Airlines filed for contract mediation with the air carrier over wages.

Sun Country’s wage offer was embarrassingly lower, by a large margin, than other carriers they compete against in the marketplace, like Allegiant, Frontier and Spirit Airlines.

The TWU believes any federal mediator will quickly find that Sun Country’s wage proposal is grossly below the market for a Dispatcher required to perform the duties at the carrier. The TWU expects the mediator will push Sun Country into putting a fair and competitive wage rate proposal on the table.

Air Wisconsin Dispatchers Ratify Contract in Landslide Vote: 24-1

On Oct. 29, Air Wisconsin Dispatchers represented by the Transport Workers Union (TWU) ratified a two-year contract with the carrier in a landslide vote: 24 voted “yes,” one voted “no,” and two did not vote.

“This contract was a long time in the making, but I think the votes speak for themselves. We are happy our members at Air Wisconsin were able to ratify an agreement that meets their needs,” said TWU International Air Division Director Mike Mayes.
The Amtrak Service Workers Council (ASWC) brought its fight to restore careers and service to New York City on Tuesday, Oct. 9. More than 100 Amtrak workers, union leaders and allies took to the steps of the Farley Post Office, adjacent to Penn Station, vowing to fight Amtrak President Richard Anderson’s plans for massive layoffs and service cuts.

“We are going to fight him tooth and nail,” said TWU International President John Samuelsen. “We will have an ugly fight to meet the same ugliness he is bringing to Amtrak passengers.”

TWU Railroad Division Director John Feltz agreed, “As Anderson slices and dices Amtrak, he is not only ruining quality of service for passengers, he is turning middle class jobs into junk. Anderson thinks he can run Amtrak like an airline, nickeling and diming customers,” he said, “This is a national railway and we won’t sit idly by while this robber baron CEO takes away our jobs and diminishes service.”

Unions that comprise the ASWC – the TWU, UNITE HERE and the Transportation Communications Union, (TCU/IAM) – were joined by members of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way-IBT, 32BJ-SEIU and the New Jersey Retirees Education Association. TWU International Secretary-Treasurer Jerome Lafragola, TWU International Administrative Vice President and Transit Division Director Curtis Tate and members of TWU Local 100 were also in attendance.

With TWU International officers and staff at the helm, the lively press conference picked up plenty of headlines, including in the New York Daily News, New York Post, AM New York, and the China Press (translated). Coverage ran twice on NBC4 New York, as well as on WCBS 880 Radio.

All speakers charged Anderson with purposely putting our national rail system into a death spiral. Eliminating dining car service means riders who pay hundreds of dollars - and higher - for tickets get served cold, pre-packaged meals, instead of hot, freshly-prepared food served on real tableware.

“I’ve worked under a number of CEOs, and until Anderson arrived on the scene, I’ve never saw anyone so hell-bent on destroying the system,” said Local 1460 President Amy Griffin. “It’s not right for workers and not right for passengers. If he thinks we are going to let him get away with that – he’s got another thing coming.”

Samuelsen called what Anderson is doing “part of an ugly national trend: disinvestment in our transit systems. He is treating the Amtrak system like a fast-food restaurant. It’s not a fast-food restaurant; it’s our national railway system.”
Wilson Johnson, a member of Local 1460, has worked for Amtrak for 19 years. He started out as a cleaner and is now a Lead Service Agent. “I love what I do. This isn’t something I do occasionally, I do it every single day - and Amtrak has been good to me, until now,” he explained. “When I came here they said I was family, but Mr. Anderson, you don’t put family on the street. We love what we do, and Mr. Anderson can’t take that from us.”

Donald Boyd, Secretary-Treasurer of UNITE HERE Local 43 and ASWC Chair noted the “display of solidarity. This is what you will get when you try to outsource. We will not stand around and let Amtrak take these jobs away from us. This is not the way we travel. This is not the Jimmy John express with panoramic views. These brothers and sisters on the railroad work very hard to keep it going. We will fight until the end. United we stand.”

Jack Dinsdale, National Vice President of the Transportation Communications Union / International Association of Machinists (TCU/IAM), called Anderson’s tactics an “attack on workers and long-distance trains...It’s not about funding a national passenger railroad system, it’s about cutting employees, cutting long distance trains and putting people back in their cars. Amtrak is a customer service company, and that company is the employees. The employees who offer passenger service, passenger satisfaction and hot cooked meals. It’s time to recognize the hard workers at Amtrak for what they are and support them.”

Dean Devita, Secretary-Treasurer, Director of Commuter/Passenger Railroads, National Conference of Firemen and Oilers, 32BJ-SEIU pledged his support. “When a business starts treating customers poorly, to me, they don’t want to be in business anymore. Are they trying to eliminate Amtrak? Today we stand with service workers, with Amtrak customers and when we fight, we will win.”

Jed Dodd, Vice President of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees-IBT, concurred. “We will stand with you doing anything necessary to protect these jobs. Right now, we have time for talking. But when the time for talking is done and it’s time to stop the railroad, we won’t be in front of you, we won’t be behind you, we will be beside you,” he said. “We won’t go back until the job is done with results to the satisfaction of the workers and Amtrak customers.”

Avid Amtrak rider Jeffrey Jones contacted the TWU International when he saw flyers publicizing the press conference. Riding the rails since he was two, Jones charged that Anderson is making the railroad more and more unappealing. “Anderson should focus on expanding service, not cutting,” he said. “Nobody wants to eat a cold, boxed lunch. He is ruining the unique experience that comes with riding a long-distance train. What Anderson is doing is totally ludicrous. Expand Amtrak lines and service – if you build it, we will come.”

Next Steps

The ASWC plans to bring its fight to other affected cities – next stops include Boston and Chicago. To stay updated, follow the ASWC on Facebook, @AmtrakServiceWorkersCouncil and on Twitter @AmtrakCouncil.
Since the Richmond County Board of Education in Augusta, GA started utilizing the Mike Padgett Highway (MPH) Depot in 2011 for its school buses, things have been a living nightmare for the TWU Local 239 members who work there as bus operators, monitors and mechanics. In response, Local 239 and the TWU International have launched a strategic, fightback campaign against what members are calling a toxic worksite and dangerously defective school buses.

Toxic Worksites

Members believe the depot site is contaminated by toxic or hazardous waste left behind by the previous occupants: companies that refurbished and remanufactured military vehicles. Activities performed at the site included disassembly, sandblasting, replacement of parts, reassembly and painting of vehicles.

Regulatory review of the site established that vehicle parts, tires, polyethylene sheeting and household debris had been buried at the site. Reviews also showed that, in 1991, gas, diesel and used oil leaks from underground storage tanks were reported and subsequently removed from the site.

An environmental analysis of the site’s soil, sand, groundwater, solid waste and air vapor was conducted over ten years ago and remediation was undertaken, including the installation of a methane collection and venting system to allow for venting of the gas created by the material buried at the site – a venting that takes place in the presence of workers, their personal vehicles and the parked buses.

Once the site was granted full protection under the Brownfield Act and deemed ready for occupancy, the Board of Education proceeded with development of the depot. Previous efforts by these workers to launch an OSHA investigation of the site have been unsuccessful, as the agency does not have regulatory authority over the depot property.

Since the new depot opened, bus operators, matrons and mechanics have been regularly reporting symptoms of illness, including nausea, headaches and vertigo, that appear when at the depot location and disappear when away from the depot. Many have missed work and require treatment by physicians for severe symptoms and illness.

Workers are deeply concerned about a possible link between their health issues and their work site. In addition, they believe there may be a connection between their health problems and the well documented contamination of the Hyde Park community, which was ravaged by industrial waste for decades and is located just down the road from the school bus depot.

Health Survey

The TWU International retained a top Industrial Hygienist to assist Local 239 and local members were trained to conduct an extensive health survey with fellow drivers, matrons and mechanics. The purpose of the survey is to systematically gather information from current workers at the MPH Bus Depot about their health concerns, symptoms and experiences.

The target audience for the survey was current Richmond County Board of Education workers working at the MPH Bus Depot. The sample was a non-random, convenience sampling of these workers, Fifty-two current workers at the MPH Bus Depot, mostly bus drivers, participated in voluntary interviews in October 2018. The surveys were not conducted on work time. Key survey findings include:

- 94% of the workers surveyed reported odors at the depot.
Several noted that the odors are worse after it rains or on foggy days.

- 72% of the workers surveyed reported having health symptoms they believe are related to the depot. Most workers reported multiple symptoms that cleared over the weekend or after several days away.
- 50% of the workers with symptoms reported missing work as a result and 53% reported seeking medical evaluation and care.
- 50% of the workers surveyed reported knowing co-workers with health symptoms or concerns related to the depot. 17% reported knowing co-workers who had been transferred because of health symptoms and concerns.
- 22% of workers surveyed reported knowing children riding the bus who mention smells, health symptoms or concerns.

Read full results of the survey at the TWU fightback campaign website www.toxicschoolbus.org.

Bringing it to the Board

On Nov. 13, TWU members, parents and allies filled the Richmond County Board of Education meeting room, demanding action on both the exploding bus fires and toxic worksite issues.

Members and supporters stood shoulder to shoulder, holding posters declaring, “My Job is Making Me Sick” and “No Toxic School Buses.”

“We’re taking a stand now and we’re letting them know. We aren’t attacking anybody. We are just trying to sit down, talk about the issues and just get some resolution for the safety of everybody,” Local 239 Vice President Yolanda Brown told WRDW.com.

Superintendent of schools Dr. Angela Pringle gave a 20-minute presentation on how bus driver salaries were increasing and general measures the school board was taking to ensure safety, while in the same breath implying that the bus fires could have resulted from arson and they are “looking into it.” This statement received groans from the crowd, as it was a clear slap in the face to cast any suspicion on the brave driver who saved lives that day.

Conversely, union members and parents were given just three minutes to speak on all of these issues. “We want to talk to you, communicate with you, have you come and look at the property, and understand what’s really going on down there with our buses,” Brown testified.

Several news outlets covered the TWU’s demonstration, including the Augusta Chronicle, WFXG and WRDW.

Burgers, Burgers & Brats Cookout

The TWU International hosted a cookout on Saturday, Nov. 17 for transportation workers in Richmond and Columbia Counties, including members of TWU Local 239 and Local 279, some of the currently smaller sized locals of the TWU.

Members and their kids enjoyed hot dogs, hamburgers and smoked turkey in Diamond Lakes Regional Park outside of Augusta, GA. All current and 11 newly-signed TWU members enjoyed the beautiful weather, games and face painting for kids, and were each given a Thanksgiving Day turkey from the TWU. An exciting raffle included mini-iPads and two TV giveaways.

“Joining a union guarantees dignity and respect for all,” said International Administrative Vice President and Transit Division Director Curtis Tate. “Our goal is to give as many workers as possible a seat at the bargaining table.”

The TWU and the Tower of Voices

On Sept. 9, the final piece of the Flight 93 Memorial in Shanksville, PA was unveiled.

The TWU, the Coalition of Flight Attendants and our much loved and missed colleague and friend Gwen York worked for years to help make this Tower of Voices sculpture a reality.

“The Tower of Voices contains aluminum wind chimes for each of the plane’s 40 passengers — each with its own distinct sound — and is the final component of the Flight 93 National Memorial at the crash site, two miles north of Shanksville in Somerset County,” wrote Time magazine on Sept. 10 in an article on the sculpture.

In 2013, the TWU International created a video highlighting the work the union put into this, featuring our departed friend, Gwen York. The video can be viewed at vimeo.com/81886715.

Some of our most important work in life is honoring the work and lives of others. Never Forget.
The TWU is Expanding to New Heights: 82% of Spirit Air CSAs Voted ‘Yes’

On Sept. 4, Spirit Airlines Customer Service Agents voted overwhelmingly to form a union under the banner of the TWU – 82 percent said “Yes.”

“This is the ultimate act of democracy in the workplace,” said President Samuelsen. “They are on the path to take control of their future, and the future of their coworkers. Welcome to the TWU!”

Representatives from Spirit Air did not appear for the vote count at the National Mediation Board in Washington, DC, but three TWU members did: Marcos Perez, Mariluz Ramos and Stephanie Foley.

Perez said he felt “relieved” after the vote count. “I feel like I have some sort of protection and voice now. Before this, it was like going in one ear and out the other.”

Foley agreed. “We take a lot of abuse. A lot of the policies and procedures are made up along the way,” she said of Spirit Air. “They don’t care about us and they showed us today by not coming to the National Mediation Board.”

“We are going to have a voice at the table and that’s big,” Ramos said. “Before it was one-way decision making and now we are not going to be silenced anymore.”

Perez, Foley and Ramos praised TWU International Director of Organizing Steve Roberts and Assistant Organizing Director Sean Doyle for their hard work and dedication leading the campaign drive.

“The reason why we had 82 percent of the vote is the good representation,” Perez said.

The organizing drive was also endorsed by the Association of Flight Attendants-CWA, AFL-CIO.

Negotiations for the inaugural contract were taking place in Fort Lauderdale, FL, as this issue went to press.

Clockwise: Stephanie Foley, Marcos Perez, Mariluz Ramos, Organizing Director Steve Roberts and Assistant Organizing Director Sean Doyle catch their breath after the vote count.

Gaining Ground in Lee County, FL

In June, the TWU International kicked off an organizing drive for public workers in Lee County, FL, who are employed by Lee County Transit, Public Works, Fleet Management and Parks & Recreation. We are currently in the card signing process, with a potential of representing 1,000 new members.

Workers represent the following classifications:

Envoy Air

The TWU International is also in the process of seeking representation for six more Envoy Air Fleet Service Stations, which include 800 potential new members.
After Mediation, Local 2054 Ratifies Contract: 98% Voted ‘Yes’

After mediation, Local 2054 members voted 63-1 to ratify a new, six-year contract on Nov. 8. “After years of not reaching a contract that members deserve, mediation was invoked. With the assistance of the National Mediation Board, we were able to create a package that our members can be proud of,” said Rail Division Director John Feltz.

The contract is effective immediately and ends on June 30, 2022. It includes:

- A 16.5 percent compounded wage increase, or 2.7 percent average annual wage increase
- Full retroactive pay, paid within 60 days
- Probation increased to 120 working days
- Martin Luther King Jr. Day added as a paid holiday, effective 2019
- Full “MeToo” Letter of Understanding

“Congratulations to International Rep Brian DeLucia, Local President Thomas Murray and his board for all the hard work on this contract,” Feltz said.

Norfolk, VA Port Truckers Meeting

The TWU held an enthusiastic meeting in Norfolk, VA on Oct. 27 with port truckers who are organizing to improve conditions for an estimated 4,000 short-haul port truckers. The TWU Campaigns Dept. is helping build a collective force for change, developing demands for changes in the operators’ contracts, improving the functioning of the port to eliminate wait times and developing a joint labor management health care fund. Motor carriers skim profits off the hard work of truckers and pay the workers from the leftover crumbs.

Local 252 Annual Veteran Fundraiser: Dancing Through the Decades

On Nov. 3, TWU Local 252 held their annual Veteran Fundraiser for the benefit of United Veteran’s Beacon House of Bayshore. Each year, the local honors their veterans and raises money for a veteran foundation. This year’s theme was Dancing Through the Decades. Over 200 people, including 36 veterans danced the night away to DJ Roy Friedenberger and were also entertained by Illusionist Robin Channing and Janet Russell, a medium.

Congressman Lee Zeldin (NY-R-1), an active Army reservist, was in attendance to personally thank our member veterans. Friedenberger, Channing and Russell all donated their time, as well. The night of gaming, tricky-tray auction, raffles and 50/50 raised $11,000.

“It is a privilege to hold this event yearly to honor our veterans and raise money for a good cause,” said Local 252 President Debra Hagan.

INDEPENDENT AUDITORS’ REPORT

To the International Executive Board and International Executive Council
Transport Workers Union of America 501 3rd Street, NW
Washington, D.C. 20001

We have audited the accompanying statement of Calculation of Chargeable Expenses (modified cash basis) of Transport Workers Union of America (a nonprofit organization) for the year ended August 31, 2018, and the related notes to the statement.

Management’s Responsibility for the Statement of Calculation of Chargeable Expenses
Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the statement of Calculation of Chargeable Expenses in accordance with the modified cash basis of accounting; this includes the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of the statement of Calculation of Chargeable Expenses (modified cash basis) that is free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditors’ Responsibility
Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the statement of Calculation of Chargeable Expenses (modified cash basis) based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the statement of Calculation of Chargeable Expenses (modified cash basis) is free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the statement of Calculation of Chargeable Expenses (modified cash basis). The procedures selected depend on the auditors’ judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the statement of Calculation of Chargeable Expenses (modified cash basis), whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity’s preparation and fair presentation of the statement of Calculation of Chargeable Expenses (modified cash basis) in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity’s internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the statement of Calculation of Chargeable Expenses (modified cash basis).

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Opinion
In our opinion, the statement referred to above presents fairly, in all material respects, the expenses of Transport Workers Union of America for the year ended August 31, 2018 on the basis of accounting described in Note 1b, and the allocated expenses between chargeable and non-chargeable in conformity with the Transport Workers Union of America Agency Fee Policy, described in Notes 2 through 5.

Basis of Accounting
We draw attention to Note 1b, which describes the basis of accounting. The statement of Calculation of Chargeable Expenses was prepared by Transport Workers Union of America (a nonprofit organization) utilizing the modified cash basis of accounting, which is a basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

Other Matter
Our audit was conducted for the purpose of forming an opinion on the statement of Calculation of Chargeable Expenses (modified cash basis) of the Transport Workers Union of America. The supplementary information; statement of main office expenses, statement of servicing, negotiations and grievance expenses and statement of salaries and related expenses on pages 8, 9 and 10 is presented for purposes of additional analysis. Such information is the responsibility of management and was derived from and relates directly to the underlying accounting and other records used to prepare the statement of Calculation of Chargeable Expenses (modified cash basis). The information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the financial statements (modified cash basis) and statement of Calculation of Chargeable Expenses (modified cash basis) and certain additional procedures, including comparing and reconciling such information directly to the underlying accounting and other records used to prepare the financial statements or to the financial statements themselves and other additional procedures in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. In our opinion, the information is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the financial statements as a whole.

Intended Use of Report of Independent Auditors
This report is intended solely for the information and use of the Transport Workers Union of America and its agency fee payers and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these specified parties.

AGENCY FEE POLICY
NOTES TO STATEMENT OF CALCULATION OF CHARGEABLE
EXPENSES (MODIFIED CASH BASIS)
AUGUST 31, 2018

Note 1 - Summary of Significant Accounting Policies
a. Basis of Presentation - The accompanying statements were prepared for the purpose of determining the fair share cost of expenses incurred by the Transport Workers Union of America (the Union) for employees represented by, but not members of, the Union and its affiliated local unions. The accompanying statements are not intended to be a complete presentation of the Union’s financial position or changes in its net assets in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles.

b. Principles of Accounting - The Union prepares its financial statements on the modified cash basis but includes depreciation of capitalized assets, and liabilities for payroll withholdings. Under this basis, revenues are recognized when received rather than when earned, and expenses are generally recognized when paid rather than when incurred.

c. Income Taxes - The Union is exempt from Federal income taxes under Section 501(c)(5) of the Internal Revenue Code.

d. Retirement Plan – The Union contributes to a non-contributory defined benefit pension plan for the benefit of eligible employees not covered by other union plans.

e. Depreciation - Property and equipment is stated at cost and is depreciated under the straight-line method over the estimated useful lives of the assets.

f. Use of Estimates - The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles and the modified cash basis requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported expenses during the reporting period and the allocation of expenses between chargeable and non-chargeable. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Note 2 - Agency Fee Policy
Any Transport Workers Union of America represented nonmember employee, whether publicly or privately employed who is subject to a union security clause conditioning continued employment on the payment of dues or fees, has the right to become an objector to expenses not related to collective bargaining, contract administration, grievance adjustment or other chargeable expenses. A current Transport Workers Union of America member who chooses to become an objector, must assume nonmember status prior to filing an objection. An objector’s fees shall be calculated in accordance with Agency Fee Policy.
